TO A DRUNKEN HUSBAND.

My husband, 'twas for thee I left
My own, my happy home;
For thee I left my cottage bowers,
With thee in joy to roam:
And where are all thy holy vows,
The truth, the love, the trust,
That won my heart?—all scattered now,
And trampled in the dust.

I loved thee with love untold,
And when I stood beside Thy noble form, I joyed to think
I was thy chosen bride.
They told me ere I was thine own,
How sad my lot would be;
I thought not of the future, then—
I only thought of thee.

I left my home, my happy home,
A sunny-hearted thing,
Forgetting that my happiness
A shadowing cloud might bring.
The sunny side of life is gone,
Its shadows only mine—
And thorns are springing in my heart,
Where blossoms used to twine.

I do not blame thee for thy lot,
I only pray for thee,
That thou may'st from the tempter's power
(Oh, joyful thought!) be free;
That thou may'st bend above my grave,
With penitence sincere,
And for the broken-hearted one,
Let fall a sober tear.

A Variety.

Senator Douglas in Ohio---His Passage Through Ohio and his Receptions by the People.

[From the Chicago (Ill.) Times.]

Senator Douglas having snatched a few days' time from the cares of his family in Washington, he consented, in response to the invitation of the Democratic Executive Committee of Ohio, to make a flying visit to that State, where as our readers already know, he has delivered a speech at Columbus and one at Cincinnati; and met the people in hundreds and thousands at other points on the line of the railways. He has availed himself of this brief absence to pay a hurried visit to Chicago. He arrived here on Sunday morning. It was reported throughout the city on Saturday that he was expected to arrive that evening; and at about the time of the arrival of the train from Cincinnati, the people had assembled in crowds at his hotel to give him welcome. And as soon as it was known that he was actually here on Sunday morning, hundreds of his old friends and numbers of strangers in the city collected, completely filling the Tremont House. The Senator looked in fine condition—he appearing even younger and more buoyant than ever—and received the spontaneous greetings with all his accustomed ease, and in turn greeted such as called on him with all his habitual freedom and cordiality. All day yesterday the Tremont House was thronged with people anxious to pay him their respects and to express their entire approval of his public course, and their confidence of the success that is sure to result to him and to the good cause. We understand that he has declined to receive any public demonstration, although he has been importuned to appear formally before the masses—he preferring to rest from his labors for a few days preparatory to keeping his appointment at Worcester, in Ohio, where he will speak on Friday next. But little rest he will get, judging from the course of things yesterday. As we have already intimated, he has thus far been obliged to hold one continued reception, night and day, speaking almost literally, since his arrival. But as no man can do this better than he, so he does it with less effort and less fatigue. He is always glad to see the people—as the people are delighted to see him and shake him by the hand—so true is it that he who champions the rights of the people will always have the people's support.

And what we see here, has been witnessed everywhere along the route from Washington. Our readers are already familiar with what demonstrations of respect and affection awaited him on his arrival at Pittsburg; they have read of the crowds that met him at the depot; how they carried him, as if by force, to a hotel, and demanded a speech; and he spoke to them the words of a patriot and a statesman. Pittsburg, a Pennsylvania city, was ablaze with excitement. It was the same everywhere else on the line of his travels.

The Democratic Executive Committee, of Ohio, had announced him to speak in Columbus—the capital of that great State—on Wednesday. On his arrival he was met by a committee of hundreds of citizens, with companies of the military and bands of music, and escorted to his hotel. The multitude assembled to hear and see him was immense. All the towns in the vicinity appeared to have poured for the occasion all their populations into Columbus. This demonstration was most complimentary to Senator Douglas; and, considered other than in its personal aspects, was most cheering to the cause of sound Democracy. And the people of Columbus responded to the sentiments of Senator Douglas' speech in a manner that showed that their hearts were in the work. The speech has been widely published already, and is being answered from all sections with the applause of a convinced and ready people. From Columbus, Senator Douglas started for Cincinnati, where he had an appointment to speak on Thursday. But the people would not permit him to pass thus rapidly. At every station on the Little Miami railway crowds had assembled, and he was called out with cheers, and at several places, where the delay would admit of it, he was compelled to make brief addresses.

At Dayton, being ill, he was obliged to stop—but notwithstanding the state of his voice and severe cold, he was not allowed to depart until he had spoken here also. He here surrendered himself into the hands of the Democratic Executive Committee of Cincinnati, and left on Friday. The progress thence to his place of destination was one continued scene of triumphal reception. At Hamilton, companies of artillery and bands of music, with upwards of fifteen hundred people, met him at the station house, called him out, and he made a speech. And at every railway station between Dayton and Cincinnati, this, or something like this, was repeated.

At Cincinnati, Senator Douglas was received with a noble salute and a splendid discharge of rockets. There was collected at the depot, and in all the streets leading to it, tremendous crowds of citizens—so dense, indeed, was the multitude that it was next to impossible for the committee and their distinguished guest to make their way. A magnificent barouche, drawn by four horses, was in readiness to receive Senator Douglas, and soon he was moving towards the Barnet House. He addressed the people in Court square, which is fine and large, capable of holding forty or fifty thousand persons.—This immense space was filled and packed! He spoke for an hour and a half, eliciting at frequent intervals the most enthusiastic shouts of applause. At the close, rockets were sent up, cannons were fired, and music was heard throughout the city. Afterwards he was given a serenade at his hotel. The next day he visited various parts of the city, attending the Mechanical and Horticulture fairs. On Saturday night he left for Chicago.

At Lawrenceville, in Indiana, though it was dark, hundreds of people had assembled, and he was greeted with music and a cannonade. Bonfires lighted up the scene. At Greensburg the people were all out, and notwithstanding it was raining at the time, he made them a speech. When the train was again in motion, cheers went up, and lasted till it was out of sight. He reached Indianapolis at midnight, and it was raining still; but the crowd, which was dense and excited, seized him and literally carried him out of the cars to the American House, when he spoke to them for ten minutes. When he was again in the cars, the cheers, as in the other cases, followed him till he was beyond the reach of the voices, which were indeed multitudinous.

Such is the account, unexaggerated and simple, of the passage of Stephen A. Douglas from Washington through Ohio to his home in Chicago. Can there be any mistake as to how the people feel?

A Reminiscence of Erskine.

I am told you remember the late Lord Erskine?"

"I remember him well, sir," was his reply. "I knew him long before he was the great man that he became. He was about nine or ten years my senior. For a long time no one knew who he was, and he used to go by the name of the Rampant Madman. Most people were frightened at him, and the mothers used to make a sort of Bogey of him to frighten their refractory children."

"I'll send for that mad gentleman," they would say. He staid in this very place where you now are. He never staid long at a time, but he paid us a visit pretty often."

"What did he do that people thought him mad?"

"Do, sir? Why he would stand at the very edge of the cliff where the flag-staff now is, and talk by the hour—sometimes for two or three hours together; and so loud would he speak at times, that you might hear him a quarter of a mile off, his right arm moving above his head, and his left arm clenched firmly on his hip."

(The old man stood up and imitated the great orator's attitude.)

"At low water he would go and stand on those black rocks out yonder, and talk, seemingly to the waves. When he began he never stopped till it was all over, and I have seen the perspiration rolling down his forehead even in cold weather. He never kept his hat on while he was speaking, but as soon as he was done he would put it on, and sometimes laugh heartily. He used to talk like a man who had something on his mind which he could not divulge to his fellow-creatures; and yet he did not seem to care who heard him speak. I and several other young men have been within six or seven yards of him, and although he saw us, he took no more notice of us than if we had been a parcel of sticks or stones, and went on talking just the same. He had been down here off and on for more than three years before it was known that he was the famous barrister, Erskine, and then it was only by accident that we knew he was not mad."

"How?"

"On one Sunday afternoon he brought down with him a young gentleman, of about twenty years of age, who walked about the pier while Mr. Erskine was making a speech out upon the rocks. One of the men on the pier remarked to this young gentleman, "What a pity such a fine man, and such a pleasant man when he is calm, should be so mad." Whereupon the young man roared with laughter, and then let the cat out of the bag, by saying who his friend was. It was afterward that I and several others then here, but gone to their account, came to know him so well. And a right merry gentleman he could be, too. Lord bless us, sir, swift as time flies, it seems only as yesterday that he would come done here say to us as he made his way to the cliff, with his hands in his breeches' pocket, and walking like a sailor, (he had been in the navy, you know, sir,) 'Come along, my lads, and be the jury! I am going to make another speech.' And a most beautiful thing it was to listen to him."

"One minute he would make you laugh heartily, and the next moment he'd bring the water into your eyes, by the tender way in which he'd allude to a fading flower, or a sickly child."

"There was one case in particular I remember. It was an action brought against a Mr. Somebody or other, by a lord's eldest son, for carrying off his wife. It was most beautiful—as we told him when he asked us how we liked it. Blest if he didn't make out as how the defendant was the ill-used party, and not the man as had lost his wife. Expensive as traveling was in those days, five of us went up to London to hear him deliver that speech in court before the judges and the regular sworn jury; and such a crowd as there was of lords and gentlemen, to be sure!"

"And did he deliver that same speech?" I asked.

"Yes. In parts it was a little different, and some things were added; but it was, in the main, just what he had said standing out on them rocks yonder. There was no silly pride about Mr. Erskine, sir. As soon as the case was over, and he was coming out of court, his quick eye caught sight of us; and up he comes, puts out his hands to each of us, and says, 'What! you here my lads? Well, follow me.' And he walks off to an old public house near the court, called the Chequers, and orders two bottles of port wine for us; and while we were drinking it, explained to us how it was not possible for him to win the day; and that all the effect his speech would have, would be to reduce the damages. He was mighty pleased to hear himself praised, and seemed just as proud of our approval as anybody's else. I don't think, sir," continued the old man, "that Mr. Erskine felt any of the fine things he said in his speeches. It was all acting with him; and I'll tell you why I think so."

"One day he was walking along the sand, spouting of poetry out of a book—he was learning of it, for he read it over and over again—and while he was doing so, he turned up his eyes, shook his head and stretched forth his hand, in such a way that you might have taken him for a street parson. It was a most serious part of poetry. It was something about 'Farewell the drums and fifes, the banners and the big guns—and the plumes and feathers, the cocked hats and swords, and the virtuous wars and fair women—honors, decorations and rewards. O, farewell, everything! Alas, the poor fellow's occupation's gone!' All of a sudden, sir, he shuts up the book, claps it under his arm, whistles a jig, and dances to it, and remarkably well, too, did he come the double shuffle. Another time, when he was reading poetry, I saw him work himself up till the tears actually rolled down his cheeks—and not two minutes afterwards he was playing at rounders with all the little boys on the beach."

"And did Mr. Erskine know," I asked the old smuggler, "that at first you all thought he was mad!"

"Yes, and was very much amused at it."—Household Words."

A Marvelous Story.

There is a man, a very strange man, among the Sikhs of India, a Fakir or Faqueer, too—one who gains his livelihood by putting on the appearance of death, and suffering himself to be buried for three, six or twelve months, according to the compact or agreement he enters into with his employers.—This man, far from being a mountebank, is held in extraordinary respect and veneration by the Sikh people. The stories that are told of this man are truly wonderful, and try to sift the matter how you will, the marvel only increases. Both natives and Europeans are alike perplexed; every one in the East has heard of his extraordinary powers! every means that the skeptical could employ has been tried to detect the imposture which has been suspected; but still his credit remains unshaken to the last. One of those who have witnessed his prodigious feat, is Captain W., the political agent at Loodianah, who stood by when he was disinterred after a burial of ten consecutive months, and his body seemed then as it had seemed at first, to be in a state of suspended animation. In this country it was considered a most wonderful thing, and very justly, when a dozen years ago, a young Irishman allowed himself to be locked up in a chamber for three weeks and seals to be placed on the door and window, and agreed to stay there in that confinement without meat or drink. This feat, as far as could be seen, he did perform, according to the attestation of several medical gentlemen, writers for newspapers, and others.

But look at the difference. In the case of this Indian, instead of the confinement in a spacious room, the body is put into a bag is tied up and sealed with several seals by men of the highest credit and distinction. Then it is put into a box, and the seals are again applied to the box. This, one would suppose, were test enough in all conscience. Not at all. The box is put into a stone grave or vault, then over that stone vault the earth is completely thrown, and grain is sown in the very sod which covers the living body of this bold and marvelous experimentalist.

Reader, do you marvel? What think you of this? If this be a really cunning man, who fences with the sharp eyes and looks and thought of five millions of people, and does this for fifteen or twenty years without being caught tripping, it cannot be denied that he does his feat in a workmanlike way. Buried for twelve months under ground, with corn growing over his body! How is he to enter into collusion with his confederate in the trick, if trick there be? Men of the highest rank, doubtful of his powers, and among these the celebrated Runjeet Sing, have seen him buried at the commencement, and have afterwards been present when the body was taken up after a suspended animation of twelve months' continuance. As far as all human observation could go, that extraordinary man had lived without food, without drink, without air, for the space of one entire year; and there he was, at the end of this singular experiment, alive again and hearty!

This wonderful man is now about forty-five years old, and enjoys all the ruddy health that a vigorous body and sound constitution can bestow. He is always ready to repeat his surprising performances—in fact he lives by them. He gains his bread by living under ground in a close grave.

He says, that during the time he lies thus, in a state of suspended animation, he has the most beatific dreams that can be conceived. These dreams are not like those of ordinary men, but they are long, durable and continuous, full of incident and ramified intrigue, like a well-written romance of many goodly volumes. But those beautiful dreams are never completed and brought to a close, because he is in the very midst of them, when the term of his probation comes, and the earth is opened to restore him to the world. He does not regret the time he looses by these interments, for the fictions of his teeming brain which pass through his fancy have to him a far greater charm than real life.—One day when the great Runjeet Sing, with his favorite minister, and the several grandees of the Maharajah's court were conversing with him upon the subject of these extraordinary dreams and trying to form some idea of a thing so marvelous, he described it very happily by comparing it to one of those musings, which every one has at times, when the mind in full vigor indulges in the flow of its inventions, and which are so agreeable to the patient, that the most amiable and kindest men are ready to denounce the officious friend who rouses them from so agreeable a state of half-suspended consciousness.

When the Fakir is taken up after a burial, no pulsation can be felt at once the heart, the wrist, and the temples are still; there is no breathing; the body is not cold as a corpse would be, but is cooler than that of other living men, except over the seat of the brain, which is feverishly hot and burning. All the secretions are fully stopped, the nails have ceased to grow, so have the hair and the beard. He feels great dizziness at first, and for a few hours cannot stand up without support, and for several days he continues to experience the sensation of a swing, or of one just landed after a long voyage. But gradually he recovers his health and good spirits, and enjoys amazingly the wonder and admiration he has excited.

The Sikhs look upon this man as a superior being, gifted with a supernatural faculty, and they take great pride in his powers of bodily endurance. After the disinterment, they always exhibit the greatest joy, and celebrate the occasion by the discharge of guns and letting off fireworks.

The Rajahs and Sirdars, and other men of state load him with presents. They do not distrust him as we should do, but rather glory in him as a specimen of the miraculous, vouchsafed to their own privileged country. He is said to be very rich, and is the only rich man among the Sikhs who would dare to be so long away from court, for fear of his place being filled up during his absence.—He is also the only one who does not suffer the baleful effects of slander and calumny when out of view; for, as his peculiar merit does not interfere with the progress of other men, they leave him unmolested in his glory.

Sleeping Together.

One sleeper corrupts the atmosphere of the room by his own breathing, but when two persons are breathing at the same time, twelve or fourteen times in a minute, extracting all the nutriment from a gallon of air, the deterioration must be rapid indeed, especially in a close room. A bird cannot live without a large supply of fresh air. Many infants are found dead in bed, and it is attributed to having been overlaid by its parents; but the idea that any person could lay for a moment on a baby or anything else of the same size, is absurd. Death was caused by the want of pure air.

The most destructive typhoid and putrid fevers are known to arise directly from a number of persons living in the same small room.

Those who cannot afford it, should therefore arrange to have each member of the family sleep in a separate bed. If persons must sleep in the same bed, they should be about the same age, and in good health. If the health be much unequal, both will suffer, but the healthier one the most, the invalid suffering for want of an entirely pure air.

So many cases are mentioned in standard medical works, were healthy, robust infants and the largest children have dwindled away, and died in a few months from sleeping with grandparents or other old persons, that it is useless to cite instance in proof.

It would be a constitutional and moral good for married persons to sleep in adjoining rooms, as a general habit. It would be certain means of physical invigoration, and of advantages in other directions, which will readily occur to the reflective reader.

Kings and queens and the highest personages of courts have separate apartments. It is the bodily eminations collecting and concentrating under the same cover, which are most destructive of health, more destructive than the simple contamination of an atmosphere breathed in common.—Hall's Journal of Health.

THE VALUE OF A LOTTERY PRIZE.—A New Orleans letter in the Charleston (S. C.) Courier, relates an incident which illustrates in a striking manner the evil that may be produced by one lottery ticket. A young man of good family in New Orleans, who is passionately fond of gambling, was playing cards with considerable ill-luck, and as a last throw, having lost all his money, staked a lottery ticket. He lost. After the game was over, the winner having no faith in lotteries, proposed to throw dice for it, at twenty-five cents a chance. A bystander, "a poor fellow who never owned a hundred dollars in his life," accepted the offer and won the ticket. A few days afterwards the Havana steamer arrived, and lo! the ticket had drawn $25,000. The original owner, who had thus thrown away a fortune, on hearing the news was taken with an attack of brain fever, and is even now in a sad condition; it is feared he will remain an idiot. The lucky drawer of the prize immediately invested a round sum in an assortment of flashy jewelry and garments, and has been leading ever since a life of continued revelry; he has become a fast man, and is following fast the road to ruin. The disbeliever in lotteries cannot forgive himself, and whenever he meets a friend stops him and tells him the story. It has become such a mania with him that his friends avoid him and turn the corner as soon as they see him coming. He has had several quarrels at the gaming table, where the sight of the cards inevitably brings the oft-told tale to his lips. This one prize in a lottery has made one man an idiot, started another on the road to ruin, and crazed a third. A terrible price for one prize certainly.

Hints to a Prayerless Mother.

As a little boy sat looking at his mother one day, he said,

"Grandpapa will be in heaven! Mary will be in Heaven! Baby is in heaven!"—Here the child paused and looked very solemn.

"Well, dear," said the mother, "what about mamma? Will not mamma be in heaven?"

"Oh! no, no."

"Why do you say so?" asked the mother, deeply afflicted.

"O, you do not pray, so you will not go to heaven."

"Yes, my dear, I do; I often pray for you when you do not see me—very often, indeed."

"Ah," said he, "I never saw you; then kneel down, and let me hear if you can pray."

The mother knelt by her child, and prayed aloud for herself and little one, and that day learned a lesson she never will forget.

Mother! are you going to heaven? Do your little ones think you are going, by all they observe in your conduct? Are you leading them in the way to heaven? Do they often hear your voice going up to the throne of God for them? Those who do not pray on earth, may pray when the earth has passed away, and their prayer then will not be answered. The rich man prayed for one drop of water—a very small request—but he did not obtain the boon he asked. May you be anxious to pray now that your prayer may be heard and answered.

The Approach of Death.

The article on "Death," in the New Cyclopedia, has the following:

As life approaches extinction, insensibility supervenes—a numbness and disposition to repose, which does not admit to the idea of suffering. Even in those cases where the activity of the mind remains to the last, and where nervous sensibility would seem to continue, it is surprising how often there has been observed a happy state of feeling on the approach of death. "If I had strength enough to hold a pen, I would write how easy and delightful it is to die," were the last words of the celebrated William Hunter, during his last moments. Montaigne, in one of his essays, describes an accident which left him so senseless that he was taken up for dead. On being restored, however, he says: "Methought my life only hung upon my lips; and I shut my eyes to help to thrust it out, and took a pleasure in languishing and letting myself go."

A writer in the London Quarterly Review, records that a gentleman who had been rescued from drowning, declared that he had not experienced the slightest feeling of suffocation. The stream was transparent, the day brilliant, and as he stood upright he could see the sun shining through the water, with a dreamy consciousness that his eyes were about to be closed on it forever. Yet he neither feared his fate nor wished to avert it.—A sleepy sensation which soothed and gratified him made a luxurious bed of a watery grave.

EXPERIENCES OF IMPRISONMENT.—The following is an extract from Count Goulfalconier's account of his imprisonment:

"Fifteen years I existed in a dungeon ten feet square! During six years I had a companion; during nine I was alone? I never could rightly distinguish the face of him who shared my captivity, in the eternal twilight of our cell. The first year we talked incessantly together; we related our past lives our joys forever gone, over and over again. The next year we communicated to each other our thoughts and ideas on all subjects. The third year we had no ideas to communicate; we were beginning to lose the power of reflection. The fourth, at an interval of a month or two, we would open our lips to ask each other if it were possible that the world went on as gay and bustling as when we formed a portion of mankind. The fifth we were silent. The sixth he was taken away—I never knew where—to execution or liberty. But I was glad when he was gone; even solitude was better than the pale, vacant face. One day (it must have been a year or two after my companion left me) the dungeon door was opened; whence proceeding I know not, the following words were uttered: "by order of his imperial majesty, I intimate to you that your wife died a year ago." Then the door was shut, and I heard no more; they had but flung this great agony upon me, and left me alone with it."

A FAMINE AMONG THE BEARS.—The fact that an unusually large number of bears have made their appearance in many sections of Virginia and Pennsylvania this season has heretofore been referred to. The Rockingham (Va.) Register says: There is said to be little or no mast in the mountain this season. The consequence is that bears are becoming exceedingly troublesome in the settlements. They have come down from their retreat in the mountains, and are playing sad havoc with corn fields, cattle and sheep. Mr. Senger, living near Mole Hill, in this county, had several cattle killed by the animals near the Richlands, a few days ago. Mr. John Miller, living near Hoover's Mill, on the South Fork, in Pendleton county, also had a number of sheep—about half his flock—killed in the same way a short time since.—They are also destroying the corn fields within their range. The fields of Messrs. David Gladwell and Peachy Gordon, three or four miles from Rawley Springs, show marks of the teeth of the half-starved bears coming down into the settlements.

THE TONGUE.—Let us often deny the tongue. "No man speaks safely," says a great saint, "but he who is silent willingly." It is impossible for persons to talk as fast and as much as they do without folly and sin. We talk too much. If we doubt this, let us think for a moment how little we say which is worth saying, how much that does harm to others or ourselves, and then we cannot doubt it again. We talk too much. When, then, we are incited to talk rapidly, let us check ourselves, partly to prevent our saying what we should afterwards repent of, and partly to give ourselves perfect command over any motion unless we can bid it stop as well as go on. It is quite as needful in taming a horse, to teach him to pause at our bidding as to move on. Let us learn then to command our tongues by denying them, by not speaking at times when we are tempted to do so, and thus obtaining a victory and power over this unruly member.

Public Officers---Criticism of their Acts.

When men are elevated to official stations they become servants of the people; they are expected to be representatives and executors of the will of their masters, and in such positions their official conduct is open to the inspection of the public. In examining the conduct of an officer, all the facts in any particular case should be carefully ascertained and justly weighed, and conclusions drawn only after such deliberate investigation.—Candor should always be observed. Too often men are condemned from a partial revelation or an unjust construction of the facts.

All examinations of the acts of an officer should be confined to those done in an official capacity. Private life should never be invaded. The public have no right to tear from about a man the shield of privacy to expose his private opinions, or his ordinary conduct, just because he is an officer or a candidate for elevation to some political post.

The freedom of speech and the liberty of the press guaranteed to every citizen who desires to investigate official conduct, has of late days been so prostituted by journalists, that it would seem that there is, in practice, no limit to personal detraction, calumny and abuse. The indulgence of writers for the press in scurrillity, never aided in their moral education, and low personalities, false representations, and vulgar abuse, seldom injures the man at whom they were aimed.

There is sufficient latent morality and self-respect among citizens in almost every community to turn public sentiment against an indorsal of the abuse of individuals and private character in public newspapers. Then he who fabricates and publishes ill stories about private citizens, public officers, or candidates for office, although he may gain the point at which he aims—the temporary injury or depreciation of such persons' reputation—he as certainly receives the well merited censure of the upright and honorable of his follow-men. "Truth is mighty and will prevail"—and although "slow of foot," will ultimately develope itself to the credit of those in the right, and to the lasting condemnation of the wrong-doer.

☞ We doubt whether there ever has been as little party strife with the masses of the parties in this county as in the present campaign. Democrats, Whigs, Republicans, Americans and Republican-Americans throughout the county, with but very few exceptions, are cool and free from the least excitement. The results on the 2nd Tuesday of October will be evidence of the personal popularity and strength of the candidates now before the people without respect to their party attachments. If any of the gentlemen put in nomination by the Democratic County Convention should be successful, it will be because they are stronger with their fellow-citizens than their opponents, and not because they have party claims upon a majority of the voters of the county. The uncalled for and unjustifiable attacks made upon some of the candidates of the Democratic party, instead of injuring them, must certainly give them strength with those of their fellow-citizens in the Opposition party who know such charges to be false—and should they be elected under such circumstances, their success could not with any degree of fairness, be claimed as a party victory. We shall look anxiously for the returns, and if a majority of the voters decide against the best men, we will agree that party can exert sufficient influence to defeat the sober and candid sentiments of a large majority of the citizens of the county.

Renewal of the Chinese War—Allied Squadron defeated—500 British killed and wounded.

CHINA.

Admiral Hope arrived off Peiho river on the 17th of June, and found the entrance barred. An attempt was made on the 25th to force a passage, when suddenly batteries, supported by a force of 20,000 men, were unmasked, and opened a destructive fire.—After a severe action, the squadron was compelled to withdraw, with the loss of the gun-boats Cormorant, Lee, and Plover. Four hundred and sixty-four were killed and wounded. The French had 14 killed out of sixty. The plenipotentiaries had returned to Shanghae.

Seven officers were killed and seventeen wounded. Among the wounded was the Admiral. The details say that the mouth of the river was raked by the fire from the newly-constructed forts, amounting to ninety or a hundred guns.

At 1,30 P. M., the signal for action was run up.

The gun-boats Opossum and Plover pushed in close to the first barrier. The guns of the forts then open fire, and the action became general. The fire of the Chinese, in weight and precision, was such as had never before been experienced. Every shot told, while those of the British did, comparatively, but little damage.

The troops were ordered to land. As the first boat touched the shore, the forts poured out a perfect hurricane of shell, balls, and rockets, which mowed down the men as they landed. The ships supported them as well as possible. Of the thousand men who landed, barely a hundred reached the first of the wide ditches, situated five hundred yards from the river, and only fifty reached the third ditch. They would have made an attempt to scale the walls, but the ladders were either broken by the shot or stuck in the mud. With one of the ladders that remained ten of the men sprang forward, three of whom were killed and five severely injured.

Orders were at last given to retire, and while in retreat the men were shot down like birds. Many of the boats were swamped by the balls and not enough remained to carry off the survivors. Several boats full of wounded men were struck and swamped.

Russian features were distinctly visible among the men manning the Chinese batteries.

The Americans towed up several boats to the scene of action and afterwards took a number of men to their respective ships.

The following telegraph dispatch, in relation to the China difficulty, had been published by the British Government:

Admiral Hope arrived off the Peiho river on the 17th of June, and found that the fortifications had been rebuilt, but no guns or men were visible. The entrance into the river was barred with booms and stakes.—The plenipotentiaries joined the squadron on the 20th, and no notice having been taken of the announcement of their arrival, an attempt was made on the 25th to force a passage, when, on a sudden, batteries supported by a mongrel force of apparently 20,000 men, were unmasked, and opened a destructive fire. After a severe struggle the squadron was obliged to withdraw, with the loss of the gun-boats Cormorant, Lee, and Plover, and 464 killed and wounded. The French had fourteen killed and wounded out of 60.

The plenipotentiaries have returned to Shanghae.

The rest of China was reported quiet.

No fears are entertained about Canton, but the Tartar troops have been disarmed, as a matter of precaution.

A further telegram mentions that seven officers were killed and seventeen wounded, Admiral Hope being among the latter.

Other telegrams confirm these particulars, and one via Trieste, adds the following, "It is stated that the American ambassador has been admitted to Pekin."

Judge Douglas at Wooster, Ohio.

It will be seen, from the letter which we give in another column, that the Democratic meeting held yesterday at Wooster, Ohio, to listen to Senator Douglas, was the greatest demonstration that has yet been made in the interior of the State. Judge Douglas was greeted with the same enthusiasm that attended his progress through Southern Ohio, on his way to Chicago. The popularity of Judge Douglas among the masses of the people has never been excelled by any man since the days of Gen. Washington. No one ever better deserved the appellation of the people's favorite. When upon the track for President, next year, he will sweep the north-west as it has not been swept since the Harrison tornado of 1840. Judge Douglas embraced the opportunity to make a concise reply to a review of his article in Harper, which lately appeared in the Washington Union. He accused the author of falsely misrepresenting his position in several important particulars. The energy and boldness of Judge Douglas' speech will be generally admired, even by the few persons who dissent from his doctrines. The courage which he manifests in proclaiming his views, both on the stump and with the pen, is refreshing, indeed, when contracted with the contemptible non-committalism which distinguishes too many Presidential candidates. He desires no one to take him on his trust, but proclaims his opinions everywhere. This is one reason why the people love and admire him.—Cincinnati Enquirer, Sept. 17.

HORRIBLE CRUELTY IN THE BRITISH ARMY.—The London Times gives the following report of a case of flogging in the British army for desertion:

The first man, named Green, bore his punishment as stated by an eye witness, "like a true soldier," but the second, named Davis, a young recruit, protested his innocence of the crime of desertion, bellowed and screamed for mercy, and supplicated Col. Talbott and the medical officers, and others who were present to have compassion on him, or he should die. His back was covered with a mass of large red, inflamed boils, which bled profusely at every stroke, and reddened the ground under his feet, upon which the cat was ordered to be withheld for a few moments, when, finding that his punishment was not at an end, he gave vent to exclamations for mercy, and partly succeeded in delivering himself, by force from the straps which bound him to the halyards. The punishment was again ordered to be continued, when at every succeeding stroke his cries and exclamations were most lamentable, insomuch that the officers and men swooned away at the sickening spectacle, and had to be carried into the open air. One officer and upwards of twenty non-commissioned officers and men, long in the service, fainted, and others stopped their ears and closed their eyes, lest they, too, should become unnerved and be subject to the reproach and ridicule of their comrades.

The Reduction of the State Debt.

[From the Lycoming Gazette.]

A short time since we adverted to the fact of the State government advertising for bonds of the commonwealth, to be redeemed with surplus funds in the treasury. Agreeably to that advertisment, the amount of bonds called for was offered for redemption, and accordingly redeemed and canceled. As directed by law, and annexed official proclamation is made by the Governor, showing the amount of the public debt paid off within the period named, the total of which reaches the satisfactory figure of one million one hundred and thirty-seven thousand one hundred and fifty-five dollars and thirty-six cents—all of which has been redeemed within the term of Governor Packer and about six weeks of the close of that of his predecessor. It is only necessary to refer to this gratifying state of affairs as compared with that existing but a few years ago, when the State was obliged to borrow money to pay the interest upon its debt—to refute the blatter of asses against the present Governor and the sale of the State canals:

PENNSYLVANIA, SS:
[L. S.] IN THE NAME AND BY THE AUTHORITY OF THE COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA.
WILLIAM F. PACKER,
Governor of the said Commonwealth.
PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS, by the third Section of the Act of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth, passed the 22d day of April, A. D., 1858, entitled "An Act to establish a Sinking Fund for the payment of the Public debt," it is made the duty of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, the Auditor General and State Treasurer, Commissioners of the Sinking Fund, created by the said Act of Assembly, on the first Monday of September, A. D., 1859, and on the same day, annually thereafter, to report and certify to the Governor, the amount received under the said act, the amount of interest paid, and the amount of the dept of the Commonwealth redeemed and held by them. Whereupon the Governor shall direct the certificates representing the same to be canceled, and on such cancellation, issue his Proclamation stating the fact, and the extinguishment and final discharge of so much of the principal of said debt.

And Whereas, by the Ninety-eighth Section of the Act of the General Assembly, passed the 19th day of April, A. D., 1853, entitled "An Act to provide for the ordinary expenses of Government," it is provided, that thereafter the receipts of the Sinking Fund to the amount that may be necessary to cancel the relief issues now in circulation, under the provisions of the Act of the 4th day of May, A. D., 1841, and the re-issue under the Act of the 10th day of April, A. D., 1849, shall be applied toward the cancellation of said issues.

And Whereas, William M. Heister, Jacob Fry, jr., and Eli Slifer, Commissioners of the Sinking Fund, in obedience to the requirements of the law, report and certify to me, that the debt of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, redeemed and held by them from the 30th day of November, A. D., 1857 to the 5th day of September, A. D. 1859, amounts to the sum of one million one hundred and thirty-seven thousand one hundred and fifty-five dollars and thirty-six cents, made up as follows:

Certificates of stock loan of 11th of April 1848, 6 per cent	$44,550 00
Certificates of stock loans of various dates, 5 per cent	1,047,238 26
Relief issues canceled	41,071 00
Interest certificates of various dates redeemed	4,296 10
	$1,137,155 36

Now Therefore, As required by the Third Section of the act of Assembly aforesaid, I do hereby issue this, my Proclamation, declaring the payment, cancellation, extinguishment and final discharge of one million one hundred and thirty-seven thousand one hundred and fifty-five dollars and thirty-six cents of the principal of the debt of the Commonwealth, including forty-one thousand and seventy-one dollars of the relief issues which have been canceled and destroyed as authorized by the Ninety-Eighth Section of the Act of the 19th of April, A. D., one thousand eight hundred and fifty-three.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State at Harrisburg, this 19th day of September, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-nine and of the Commonwealth the eighty-fourth.

WM. F. PACKER.

By the Governor:
WM. M. HEISTER,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.

Reward of Honesty---Beautiful and Touching Incident.

We find the following in the St. Louis Republican of the 4th instant:

Johnny Moore is the name of a bright-eyed, jolly-faced lad, twelve or fourteen years of age, whose invalid widowed mother, living on Morgan street, he helped to support by the sale of newspapers, and by such errands and small jobs as he may chance to fall in with. Johnny, who is the hero of the pleasant and truthful incident we are about to record, is extremely neat in his attire, though his clothes have not always been of the best, and may have shown, in sundry patches and mended rents, the results of both poverty and frugal care. In short, Johnny is just such a boy as we used to "read about" in Sunday School books.

Yesterday morning, bright and early, he was trudging along Broadway, between Franklin avenue and Washington street, when he chanced to stumble against a large pocket book, which he picked up and found to contain a large number of bank notes and papers. While he was meditating on the sudden riches he had amassed, and which he had slid into a capacious pocket, or perhaps racking his youthful mind whether to seek for the owner or conceal his good fortune, a gentleman rushed by him in an anxious, hurried, nervous manner, which convinced the boy that he was looking for something, and he thought he knew what.

"Have you lost anything?" asked Johnny. "Yes—my pocket book," was the gentleman's answer; "have you seen it?"

The little fellow "expected" he had—he didn't know, though. What kind of pocket book was it?

This led to an adjournment to a neighboring store, where the flushed and almost breathless individual "of the first part" proceeded to say that the pocket book was a large black one, containing $1200 in bank bills and some accounts, a strip of red morocco binding underneath the flapping inscribed "Robert Thomas, Covington, Ky." The description tallied, and Johnny's eyes snapped with cheerfulness, as he placed the treasure, just as he had found it, into the stranger's hands; and we opine there was greater joy in that one act than ten thousand dollars could have purchased at the expense of a guilty conscience.

Mr. Thomas hardly seemed to know which to feel most—relief on the recovery of his money and papers, or gratitude to the lad and admiration of his honesty. Taking Johnny by the hand, whose bounding heart (he knew not why) had by this time "splashed tears into his eyes," the gentleman took him to a clothing store and dressed him out, from top to toe, in a bran new suit. Then proceeding to a jewelry store, he purchased a good silver watch, upon which he directed to be engraved these words: "Robert Thomas to Little Johnny Moore. St Louis, Sept. 3, 1859. Honesty is the best policy." Not even content with this the generous stranger placed in a neat bead purse five twenty dollar gold pieces, which he directed the lad to give to his mother.

We shall not attempt to portray the emotions of the boy. If his quivering lips and choked utterance, and the smile that strove so hard to get through the great watery globes that trembled in his eyes, failed to tell what was going on in his heart, how shall we tell?

Wild Adventures of a Young Lady in the Woods.

The Grand Rapids (Michigan) Inquirer of the 24th, relates the following almost tragic occurrence:

On Thursday afternoon last a party of persons from this city went blackberrying below the village of Granville. One of the number, Miss Marietta Fitch, became detached from the rest of the party accidentally, and was lost in the woods. Search was immediately made as thoroughly as possible, even as late as 12 o'clock Thursday night, but she was not found until late on Friday evening.

She states that before she became separated from her friends, she saw a wild hog, which scared her, and she ran some distance into the thick woods and there became lost, not knowing which way to get to the road.

She then wandered about till she came to the farm house of J. C. Rogers. Mrs. Rogers then gave directions how to reach the plaster mill below this city. The directions, however, were erroneous. Miss Fitch, therefore, only became more and more bewildered, in endeavoring to follow out the directions.—She says she heard the sound of men's voices in the night, and the barking of dogs, but instead of making herself known, her fears caused her to believe the voices were made by wolves, and she climbed a small tree, remaining there some time, she knows not how long.

At length, in her wanderings she got into a large corn-field near the Plaster Mill, and adjoining the road between this city and Granville, where she was discovered. A teamster standing up in his wagon which was passing along the road, first saw her, and called aloud to a party of searchers. They all proceeded to search the field at once.—When she saw them, such was her mental condition, that she ran away from them.—Upon being overtaken and stopped, at first she was unable to recognize her own brother, who was one of the party, so far had reason been temporarily dethroned by her long continual wanderings. Our citizens turned out in large numbers to search for her, and no effort was spared to find the lost one. She is now at home. Rest and quiet will soon restore her to her usual condition.

Green Beans and Corn in the Winter.

[Correspondence of The Press.]

The Press of the 13th instant, tells how somebody—some townsman, I opine, for we country folk know better than that—contrives to have green beans in the winter. Now, it is all well enough to have them, but my wife says that aint the way, and she knows. She has a stone jar that holds just a bushel of prepared beans. She has had it these twenty years, I believe, and she will always have it full—and her way to fill it is this: First get the beans, then string them, next cut them as for present use, carefully rejecting all that may be so old as to have the bean formed in them; then rub them well between your hands with fine salt, after which pack them in the jar aforesaid, a layer of beans and a layer of salt till the jar is full; tie a piece of oil cloth over the top of the jar, and the beans are ready for use. They will form a pickle for themselves, and come out of the jar as fit for use, three months afterwards, as the day they went in. As for cooking, either soak them over night, or change the water in boiling; boil slowly. I have heard my wife complimented on having beans so early by parties eating her old ones, kept over as above set forth. Try it, somebody.

Your correspondent don't tell how to have the corn to cook with the beans. Shall I give my wife's receipt? Get some sugar corn—Stowell's evergreen is the best—scald it two minutes and thirty seconds, to curdle the juices only, not to boil it; cut it from the cob, and put it in jars in a pickle strong enough to bear an egg; seal the jars. This corn will come on the table as white and fair looking as if taken from the field the day it is eaten. In serving up, add a table-spoonful of sugar, to compensate for the juices withdrawn by the salt. Try them both; they are not hard to take, separate or mixed. W.

Chester county, Sept., 1859.

Fire at Easton---Circus Horses Burnt.

About five o'clock on Saturday morning, a fire broke out in the stable attached to the United States hotel, at Easton, at the time principally occupied by the fine stud of Horses attached to Dan Rice's Circus Company.—Twelve of the noble animals perished—among the number some of the most valuable. The stable was two stories, built of brick and roofed with slate. The fire was extinguished with but little damage to the building, but twelve of the noble animals perished from suffocation and inhalation of the heated air.—They were on the upper floor, and it was found impossible to rescue all that were there. The condition of the horses found dead is represented to have been distressing indeed, showing distinctly their dying agony.

The fire is attributed to the bursting of a fluid lamp, which it is supposed was knocked down by one of the horses.

Two valuable dogs were in the stable at the time, and thought lost, but finally discovered in one corner of the building with their heads deeply imbedded in the straw. They were taken out unharmed. It is feared that several more will die from inhalation of the heated air. Mr. Rice has been indisposed for some time, not being able to perform, was present, and deeply affected by the misfortune that had befallen him. We have not heard the estimated loss, but it must be heavy, as the horses lost are among the most valuable of the collection, among the number being what is known as the Wild "Horse."

The elephant was on the lower floor, and it is said, when the door was opened, rushed forth, throwing his trunk right and left. He walked to a remote part of the yard, and, turning round, stood gazing upon the scene as if congratulating himself upon his fortunate and happy deliverance.

☞ The tickets are now ready for distribution. Persons in town from the distant districts should call and get a supply.

THE SALAMANDER SAFES OF PHILADELPHIA AGAINST THE WORLD.

EVANS & WATSON
Have had the surest demonstration in the following certificate that their manufacture of Salamander Safes has at length fully warranted the representations which have been made of them as rendering an undoubted security against the terrific element:
Philadelphia, April 12th, 1856.
Messrs. EVANS & WATSON—Gentlemen—It affords us the highest satisfaction to state to you, that owing to the very protective qualities of two of the Salamander Safes which we purchased of you some few months since, we saved a large portion of our jewelry, and all our books, papers, &c., exposed to the calamitous fire in Ranstead Place, on the morning of the 11th instant.
When we reflect that these Safes were located in the fourth story of the building we occupied, and that they fell subsequently into a heap of burning ruins, where the vast concentration of heat caused the brass plates to melt, we cannot but regard the preservation of their valuable contents as most convincing proof of the great security afforded by your Safes.
We shall take much pleasure in recommending them to men of business as a sure reliance against fire.

MEDICAL SCIENCE.
The history of "HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS," the most remarkable medicine of the day, and the many cures that have been performed with it in cases of LIVER COMPLAINT, DYSPEPSIA, NERVOUS DEBILITY, and diseases arising from a disordered liver or stomach, place it among the most astonishing discoveries that have taken place in the medical world. The diseases to which these Bitters are applicable are so universal, that there are but few of our friends who may not test their virtues in their own families or circle of acquaintances, and prove to their own satisfaction that there is at least one remedy among the many advertised medicines, deserving the public commendation. It is a fact that, in the minds of many persons, a prejudice exists against what are called Patent Medicines; but why should this prevent you resorting to an article that has such an array of testimony to support it as Hoofland's German Bitters? Physicians prescribe it, Why should you discard it? Judges, usually considered men of talent, have and do use it in their own families. Why should you reject it? Clergymen, and those the most eminent, take it; why should not you? Let not your prejudice usurp your reason, to the everlasting injury of your health; if you are sick, and require a medicine, try these Bitters.
These Bitters are prepared and sold by Dr. C. M. Jackson, No. 418 Arch street, Philadelphia, Pa., and by druggists and storekeepers in every town and village in the United States, Canadas, West Indies, and South America, at 75 cents per bottle. See that the signature of C. M. Jackson is on the wrapper of each bottle.

HUNTINGDON COUNTY

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

FIFTH ANNUAL EXHIBITION

At Huntingdon,

Tuesday, October 4th,

Wednesday, October 5th,

Thursday, October 6th,

THE COUNTY FAIR.—Our county Fair will commence on Tuesday next. The Buildings have been enlarged, and more than the usual number of stalls will be put up. Seats will be put up for the comfort of visitors. The committee having the arrangements in charge will have everything complete.

If the farmers will do what they can, the fifth exhibition will far exceed any yet held in the county. Something can be brought by every farmer in the county—do not come without bringing something. Show to the State that Old Huntingdon will not be behind her sister counties—that she has good farms and good and proud farmers. Bring your stock, your grain, your fruit, your vegetables—the best of everything you may have.

THE HUEY BOYS.—On Saturday evening last our Sanctum was honored by a company of juvenile singers, "The Huey boys,"—Masters Eugene E. Simonton, Matthew Taylor, David Elliot McMurtrie and William Scott. They delighted us with several songs, and for new beginners they executed their parts admirably well. The ancient borough is not behind any town in the State in its musical talent, vocal and instrumental, and we are pleased that the youth receive proper encouragement from their parents to become perfect in innocent amusements. All boys have sufficient time from their books to learn to play upon some kind of an instrument, and while they are thus engaged they will not be abusing themselves on the streets. The younger they begin the more perfect they will become.

☞ A soldier by the name of Platt, from Jackson township, this county, was shot clean through with a nail, by one of the guard at the Lewistown encampmeut, on Friday night last. The nail entered his abdomen, and came out near the back bone. There are several stories afloat concerning the affair, and, as we do not know which is the most reliable one, we forbear mentioning any. The last accounts we had from the wounded man were, that he was yet alive, but there were no hopes of his recovery.

A RARE TREAT.—Prof. Coyle, assisted by the Continentals, will give a concert in the Court House, every evening during the Fair. The exercises will consist of vocal and instrumental music. All we have to say is, if the people in attendance at the Fair, want to hear good music, soul-stirring music, and music which cannot be excelled, attend these concerts.

☞ Will be in town next week—all the candidates on both tickets. Of course they will make themselves known to the voters and make as many friends as possible. All right. And we hope the voters will determine before the day of election who to vote for—and when they go to the ballot-box vote boldly as an American citizen should.

☞ A fellow, calling himself a Pennsylvania Dutchman, held forth to quite a respectable audience on post office corner, on Monday evening, trying to sell them the best blacking in the World. He talked pretty well, but it didn't appear to bring in the quarters.

☞ Mrs. Kennedy King will please accept our thanks for a specimen of Union township apples. It would take but very few such to fill a half bushel.

Mr. Jas. Hutchison left with us a specimen of very fine potatoes. He has our thanks.

☞ The Excelsior Cornet Band, after being lionized at Lewistown for a week, returned home on Saturday night last. The Excelsior, took everything down that came in their way, this time, as on all former occasions. They are hard to crawl over, that's so.

TILL ROBBED.—On Friday night last, some unmitigated scoundrel and thief, stole about $3 from Mr. K. M. King's money drawer.—Mr. King was attending to customers when the act was perpetrated. It is a pity such devils can't be caught.

☞ Our merchants are "in town" and ready for customers. D. P. Gwin, Fisher & McMurtie, M. Strous, Benj. Jacobs, H. Roman and M. Gutman & Co., have each received large stocks of new goods. Give them a call.

THE CASSVILLE SEMINARY.—We learn that this institution will contribute largely to the Exhibition next week. A sight at the fine arts from Cassville will be a rich treat to all lovers of the beautiful.

A LIVE ALLIGATOR.—Among the many curiosities to be exhibited at our County Fair is a genuine live Alligator, sent to this place from Alabama, as a present to Master William Porris.

☞ Coming—the Circus. Do. the Elephants. Like all other Circuses, the one coming will be sure to take up a liberal collection of loose quarters.

☞ Brown has just opened a new and very extensive stock of Hardware, &c. For any article usually to be found in city Hardware Stores, call on Jas. A. Brown.

☞ The little folks will find a handsome assortment of new books at Lewis'. Toy bibles, song and picture books by the thousand. Call and please your children.

FAMILY BIBLES.—Any family in want of a family bible should call at Lewis's Book Store. He has just received a fine assortment.

MORE ATTRACTION.—We are informed that Mr. Reese, of Mifflin, purposes bringing his "flying horses" here during the Fair.

☞ Materials for Flowers, handsomely assorted in boxes, just received and for sale at Lewis' Book Store.

☞ A new stock of violins and bows, accordeons and fifes, just received at Lewis' Book Store.

LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.

MR. EDITOR:—It was my privilege recently, to attend a Sunday School Celebration, which awakened an interest and produced an impression, such as it has seldom been my happiness to witness. A brief account of the same, we think, cannot fail to interest your many readers, and, we trust, awaken a deeper interest among them in behalf of the Sunday School cause.

This Celebration was held on Wednesday, the 14th inst., in a beautiful grove, on the farm of Mr. Pomeroy, at the foot of Tuscarora Mountain, near Blair's Mills, Tell township, in the south-eastern corner of our county; almost on the identical spot where the four counties of Huntingdon, Franklin, Perry and Juniata meet. This ground had recently been occupied by a Methodist Camp meeting, and many of the tents were yet standing. The day was beautiful—a warm bright sun and gentle breeze. Arrangements had been made for all the schools to meet at the Presbyterian Church, of Upper Tuscarora Valley, of which the Rev. G. Van Artsdalen is the stated supply, and who has borne a conspicuous part in getting up this Celebration.

About nine o'clock the schools began to arrive, in large wagons, drawn by four, six and eight horses. But such wagons, and such loads of living freght, we never saw before. Our school, just established this summer in a destitute place numbered one hundred and nine, teachers and scholars, and these were all brought in two wagons. The wagons were all beautifully decked with evergreens, and the horses with flags. Some schools came singing beautiful hymns with their charming sweet voices; whilst others brought the soul stirring music of the fife and drum. One delegation after another arrived, till the whole campus around the church was one dense mass of human beings. And still they come! Excitement was now raised to the highest pitch. The hills and valleys echo with the martial music of fife and drum; the chief marshal rides to and fro through the crowd, making arrangements for the march, and giving the word of command; the banners and flags float upon the breeze, whilst the eyes of hundreds of children sparkle with delight, and clap their little hands for joy, saying one to another, "This is the Celebration!" Indeed, Mr. Editor, it was worth a ride fifteen or twenty miles, to witness the enthusiasm manifested. One individual remarks to us, he came forty miles, and was amply compensated.

About two o'clock, the word of command was given to march to the camp ground, about a mile distant. This parade was perhaps the most imposing spectacle of the day, and much credit is due to Col. Noss, of Nossville, the chief marshal, for the good order observed. First in the march was the band, followed by the orators of the day; then came the choir; next the schools, thirteen in number, defiled in regular order, followed by hundreds of citizens, and a long train of vehicles, the whole not less than half a mile in length. It was a procession worthy of the day and occasion. It was worth an angel's visit, and we doubt not many an angelic spirit looked with delight on the scene. It was such a sight, as was seldom if ever known, amid these hills and vallies. We agree with one of the eloquent speakers on the occasion, "it was the greatest day of the kind ever known in this region, since God fixed these mountains on their immovable foundations."

By actual count, it was ascertained there were over eight hundred children in the line of march. Each teacher accompanied his or her class. Each school was headed by an appropriate banner; not expensive, yet beautiful and neat, ornamented very tastefully with evergreens and flowers. Several of these banners had inscribed on them beautiful and appropriate mottoes. We noticed the following: "Suffer little children to come unto me," "In the name of our God we will set up our banner," "Choose you this day, whom you will serve," "Feed my lambs," "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom." On one we observed the simple but emphatic motto, "Onward." On another two hearts entwined together, and over them the word "Union." Not the least interesting feature in the procession, was a band of little girls dressed in white, with their heads uncovered and beautifully decked with evergreens and roses. We saw one little girl in the procession, who, we were told, had committed to memory this summer, the whole of the New Testament, as far as Galatians, and she hoped to complete the whole book before her school closed. This is one of the blessed effects flowing from Sunday Schools. The minds of the young are richly stored with the precious truths of God's word, which are as a lamp to their path through all the journey of life.

The religious exercises of the day were under the direction of the Rev. G. Van Artsdaleu. After singing the opening ode, commencing

"We meet again in gladness,
And thankful voices raise," prayer was offered appropriate to the occasion, in which all seemed to unite. Several addresses were delivered, varying in style and ability, but each adapted to do good, and was well received by the large and attentive audience. The interest of the occasion was greatly increased, by the excellent performance of the choir, of which all spoke in praise.

There was a spirit—an earnestness about their singing, which we have seldom heard excelled. And when they sung the beautiful parting hymn,

"How pleasant thus to dwell below,
In fellowship of love,
And though we part, 'tis bliss to know,
The good shall meet above,"

many eyes were affected to tears.

The dinner and refreshments provided, were partaken of with a good relish, during an intermission of two hours; a part of which time the band played some of their choicest music. This was another interesting part of the programme. The early breakfast, the long ride, the march, the excitements of the day, all tended to sharpen the appetite. But there was enough and to spare. Such baskets of bread, butter and cheese, chickens and hams, cakes and pies! The children were served first, by their Superintendents and teachers, after which, all were invited to come and partake. And though it was estimated there were two thousand present, all were amply satisfied, and much taken away unconsumed.

This was a Union Sabbath School Celebration, embracing as it did, Methodists and Presbyterians, United Brethren, Lutherans and Associate Reformed Presbyterians, all coming together as one. Denominational differences were forgotten. Each seemed to vie with the other, which should best promote the common cause of Sunday School Education. It was a glorious day! It was good to be there! Long will it be remembered by many! The demonstration was eminently calculated to do good, and good effects will inevitably flow from it. Not a single event occurred to mar the pleasure of the day.—About four o'clock, the vast assembly dispersed in good order; the children highly pleased with what they had seen and heard; the Superintendents and teachers forming renewed resolutions to devote themselves more entirely to the noble work in which they had engaged.

NERVOUS DISEASES CONTROLLED AND CONQUERED.

Of all the various ills that detract from the enjoyment of human life, most of them may be traced to a disordered condition of the nervous system. The horrors of Epilepsy, or Falling Sickness, arise in most cases from this cause. Our readers may remember, on several occasions before, we have alluded to the wonderful cures or modifications of Fits, made by the Vegetable Extract Epileptic Pills, invented and prepared by Dr. Seth S. Hance, of 108 Baltimore street, Baltimore, Md. We feel fully satisfied that these Pills have cured some of the most subborn cases of Epilepsy, as well as the milder forms of Fits, such as severe Cramps, Spasms, &c. We now record the fact, that persons will find these Pills equally efficacious in curing every form of nervous debility;—no matter whether manifested in the acute and excruciating form of Neuralgia, Tic-Doloreux, or Nervous Headache, the misery of Dyspepsia or Indigestion, the sufferings of Rheumatism or Gout, the melancholly hallucination of depressed spirits or hysteria, their effects will be equally happy and certain. Persons in the country can write to the inventor, and have the medicine forwarded to them by mail. The prices are, one box, $3; two boxes $5; twelve boxes $24; and sent to any part of the country, free of postage. Direct your communications to SETH S. HANCE, 108 Baltimore street, Baltimore, Md.

BAILEY & CO.'S GIGANTIC CIRCUS AND MENAGERIE, combined with the Exhibition of SANDS, NATHAN'S & CO.'S PERFORMING ELEPHANTS, ANTONY & CLEOPATRA.

This unique and mammoth establishment combines a greater number of attractions than were ever before offered to the public. The PERFORMING ELEPHANTS, Antony and Cleopatra, are the same which, for months, created the greatest furore in London or Paris, while more recently their performances were the theme of universal admiration for months, at the Broadway Theatre, New York. Their wonderful docility, and the perfection of their training, make them the most interesting specimens of the animal creation that the world has ever seen. All their faculties have been developed to the greatest extent and they stand for SUI GENERIS, the most remarkable of their kind. They stand upon their heads, play upon Musical Instruments, ascend Inclined Planes, and go through all the positions of the most accomplished acrobats.

In addition, Bailey & Co.'s Circus and Menagerie comprises a collection of wild animals, including lions, tigers, bears, leopards, hyenas, panthers, Ostriches, etc., besides a large and varied collection of the monkey tribe, and a rare variety of the most beautiful tropical birds.

The troupe of riders, vaulters, lady equestriennes, etc., is the largest and most thoroughly artistic now traveling in the United States, and comprise the following distinguished names:

Mdme. LOUISE BUBOIS, from the Cirque Parisian.
M. SANDS, the great Principal Rider.
E. W. PERRY, the best Four Horse Rider in the World.
S. BURT, the Wonderful Protean Equestrian.
LA BELLA ISABELLA, the Sylph of the Circle.
J. COOKER, the great Buffo Singer.
G. SLOMAN & BEDEAU, the World-renowned Contortionist.
SIDE WADE, the Comic Negro Delineator.
THORNE & DONALDSON, the thoroughly accomplished Gymnasts; besides a crowd of Auxiliaries and Vaulters.
LA JUNE BURT, the greatest rider in the World.
J. CONRAD, the great scene rider.
G. SLOMAN, in his great Globe Act upon horse back, will execute a variety of extraordinary Feats of Equilibriam.

The clowns, WARD & BOOKER, are the very embodiment of Fun and Jocularity. Their jokes are numerous, fresh, spicy, and piquant, full of hits at the times and follies of the day, yet entirely free from anything which the most delicately constituted mind could take the slightest exception to. Bailey & Co.'s Exhibition, therefore, comprises Elegant Horsemanship, a splendid Menagerie, Slack Rope Performance, new Singing, Comic and Classic Dancing, Wonderful Postering, Grand Spectacular Effects, Character Equestrianism, and a more novel and interesting programme than was ever before offered to the public.—Each entertainment will conclude with a COMIC AFTERPIECE, introducing all the comic talent in the company.

The American Brass Band, composed of picked musicians, accompanies the exhibition, and will precede the Grand Cavalcade on its entrance to each town, drawn by ELEPHANTS IN HARNESS, attached to the magnificent CHARIOT OF APOLLO.

The Pavillion is large and commodious, fitted up with due regard to the comfort and convenience of the visitors, and the Proprietors pledge themselves that nothing shall be found wanting to make this the most elegant, beautiful and satisfactory exhibition that ever visited this place.

The Grand Entree into the town will take place on Monday, the 10th of October, at 10 o'clock.

Doors open at 1 & 6. Performance commence at 1½ & 6½
Admission, 25 cents.
Will exhibit at HUNTINGDON, Monday, October 10th.

FALL & WINTER CLOTHING.—
The undersigned would respectfully call the attention of our friends and customers, as well as the citizens of the town and country generally, to our new and extensive assortment of consisting of every article of gentlemens' furnishing goods. We deem it unnecessary to make a newspaper flourish, being confident that a call and an examination of our goods, will satisfy all, that our goods are just what we recommend them to be, well made, of good material, and as cheap as the same quality of goods can be bought in the county of Huntingdon. It is not our desire, as it is not the policy of honest men, to deceive, but this much we will say, that we will guarantee to all who may favor us with their patronage, entire satisfaction as to quality, fit and price. Should gentlemen desire any particular kind or cut of clothing, not found in our stock, by leaving their measure, they can be accommodated at short notice. Call at the corner of the diamond, Long's new house.

VALUABLE REAL ESTATE Near HUNTINGDON, PA.—ORPHANS' COURT SALE.

In pursuance of Orders of the Orphans' Court of the county of Huntingdon, the Tracts of Land, &c., herein-after described, situate in said county, will be exposed to public sale on the premises, ON THURSDAY, THE 20TH DAY OF SEPTEMBER, 1859, as the property of JOHN KER, late of said county, dec'd., to wit:

1. All that tract marked (A) in the diagram annexed to the return of the Inquest, containing 237 acres and 130 perches, it being the Mansion Farm of said dec'd. About one-half of this tract is cleared and under cultivation; about 40 acres of which is meadow. Running water for cattle, &c., may be readily introduced into almost every field upon this farm. There are upon it a two story frame dwelling house, a large brick barn and other buildings. Also, a good apple orchard.

2. All that Tract marked (C) in said diagram, containing 237 acres and 68 perches, and called the Moore Farm. Somewhat more than half of this tract is cleared and under cultivation, a fair proportion of which is meadow. On account of the nearness of these two farms to the borough of Huntingdon, and the large quantity of meadow upon each, they would be well suited for grazing or stock farms.

3. All that Tract marked (D) in said diagram, containing 185 acres, 132 perches; about one-half of this tract is cleared and under cultivation, and has thereon erected, two tenant houses.

4. All that Tract marked (E) in said diagram, containing 214 acres, 87 perches; about 100 acres of this tract are cleared and under cultivation. No buildings thereon.

5. All that Tract marked (G) in said diagram, containing 119 acres—Woodland.

6. All that Tract marked (K) in said diagram, containing 87 acres, 147 perches—Woodland.

7. All that Tract marked (L) in said diagram, containing 148 acres, 83 perches—Woodland.

8. All that Tract marked (M) in said diagram, containing 117 acres, 147 perches—Woodland.

9. An undivided interest in Milnwood Academy in Dublin township, the extent of which interest will be made known on the day of sale.

10. All that Tract marked (B) in said diagram, containing 203 acres, 39 perches, and called the Leffand or Spring House farm; about one-half of this tract is cleared, and has thereon a dwelling house, saw-mill, and an excellent spring of water. To be sold as the real estate of Joshua A. Ker, deceased, under his last Will.

11. All that Tract marked in said diagram with the letter (F) containing 179 acres, 124 perches, and called the Creek Farm: about 80 acres thereof are cleared, and a dwelling house thereon erected; the uncleared part of this tract is heavily timbered. To be sold as the Real Estate of Henry M. Ker, deceased, under his last Will.

All these lands, except Milnwood, lie in one body, near the borough of Huntingdon, and will be sold together or separately, so as to suit purchasers. TERMS.—One third of the purchase money to be paid on confirmation of the sale, and the residue to be payable with interest, at such times as may be agreed upon on the day of sale. The unpaid purchase money to be secured by Bonds and Mortgage.

Sale to commence at 10 o'clock of said day. Attendance will be given by DAVID S. KER, Trustee.

GROVER & BAKER'S CELEBRATED FAMILY SEWING MACHINES.

New Styles—Prices from $50 to $125. Extra Charge of $5 for Hemmers.

495 Broadway,.....New York.
730 Chestnut street,.....Philadelphia.

These Machines sew from two spools, as purchased from the store, requiring no re-winding of thread; they Hem, Fell, Gather, and Stitch in a superior style, finishing each seam by their own operation, without recourse to the hand-needle, as is required by other machines. They will do better and cheaper sewing than a seamstress can, even if she works for one cent an hour, and are, unquestionably, the best Machines in the market for family sewing, on account of their simplicity, durability, ease of management, and adaptation to all varieties of family sewing—executing either heavy or fine work with equal facility, and without special adjustment.

As evidence of the unquestioned superiority of their Machines, the GROVER & BAKER SEWING MACHINE COMPANY beg leave to respectfully refer to the following

TESTIMONIALS.

"Having had one of Grover & Baker's Machines in my family for nearly a year and a-half, I take pleasure in commending it as every way reliable for the purpose for which it is designed—Family Sewing."—Mrs. Joshua Leavitt, wife of Rev. Dr. Leavitt, Editor of N. Y. Independent.

"I confess myself delighted with your Sewing Machine, which has been in my family for many months. It has always been ready for duty, requiring no adjustment, and is easily adapted to every variety of family sewing, by simply changing the spools of thread."—Mrs. Elizabeth Strickland, wife of Rev. Dr. Strickland, Editor of N. Y. Christian Advocate.

"After trying several different good machines, I preferred yours, on account of its simplicity, and the perfect case with which it is managed, as well as the strength and durability of the seam. After long experience, I feel competent to speak in this manner, and to confidently recommend it for every variety of family sewing."—Mrs. E. B. Spooner, wife of the Editor of Brooklyn Star.

"I have used a GROVER & BAKER Sewing Machine for two years, and have found it adapted to all kinds of family sewing, from Cambric to Broadcloth. Garments have been worn out without the giving way of a stitch. The Machine is easily kept in order, and easily used."—Mrs. A. B. Whipple, wife of Rev. Geo. Whipple, New York.

"Your Sewing Machine has been in use in my family the past two years, and the ladies request me to give you their testimonials to its perfect adaptedness, as well as labor-saving qualities in the performance of family and household sewing."—Robert Boorman, New York.

"For several months we have used Grover & Baker's Sewing Machine, and have come to the conclusion that every lady who desires her sewing beautifully and quickly done, would be most fortunate in possessing one of these reliable and indefatigable 'iron needle-women,' whose combined qualities of beauty, strength and simplicity, are invaluable."—J. W. Morris, daughter of Gen. Geo. P. Morris, Editor of the Home Journal.

Extract of a letter from THOS. R. LEAVITT, Esq., an American gentleman, now resident in Sydney, New South Wales, dated January 12, 1858:

"I had a tent made in Melbourne, in 1853, in which there were over three thousand yards of sewing done with one of Grover & Baker's Machines, and a single seam of that has outstood all the double seams sewed by sailors with a needle and twine."

"If Homer could be called up from his murky hades, he would sing the advent of Grover & Baker as a more benignant miracle of art than was ever Vulcan's smithy. He would denounce midnight shirt-making as 'the direful spring of woes unnumbered.'"—Prof. North.

"I take pleasure in saying, that the Grover & Baker Sewing Machines have more than sustained my expectation. After trying and returning others, I have three of them in operation in my different places, and, after four years' trial, have no fault to find."—J. H. Hammond, Senator of South Carolina.

"My wife has had one of Grover & Baker's Family Sewing Machines for some time, and I am satisfied it is one of the best labor-saving machines that has been invented. I take much pleasure in recommending it to the public."—J. G. Harris, Governor of Tennessee.

"It is a beautiful thing, and puts everybody into an excitement of good humor. Were I a Catholic, I should insist upon Saints Grover and Baker having an eternal holiday in commemoration of their good deeds for humanity."—Cassius M. Clay.

"I think it by far the best patent in use. This Machine can be adapted from the finest cambric to the heaviest cassimere. It sews stronger, faster, and more beautifully than one can imagine. If mine could not be replaced, money could not buy it."—Mrs. J. G. Brown, Nashville, Tenn.

"It is speedy, very neat, and durable in its work; is easily understood and kept in repair. I earnestly recommend this Machine to all my acquaintances and others."—Mrs. M. A. Forrest, Memphis, Tenn.

"We find this Machine to work to our satisfaction, and with pleasure recommend it to the public, as we believe the Grover & Baker to be the best Sewing Machine in use."—Deary Brothers, Allisonia, Tenn.

"If used exclusively for family purposes, with ordinary care, I will wager they will last one 'three score years and ten,' and never get out of fix."—John Erskine, Nashville, Tenn.

"I have had your Machine for several weeks, and am perfectly satisfied that the work it does is the best and most beautiful that ever was made?"—Maggie Aimison, Nashville, Tenn.

"I use my Machine upon coats, dressmaking, and fine linen stitching, and the work is admirable—far better than the best hand-sewing, or any other machine I have ever seen."—Lucy B. Thompson, Nashville, Tenn.

"I find the work the strongest and most beautiful I have ever seen, made either by hand or machine, and regard the Grover & Baker Machine as one of the greatest blessings to our sex."—Mrs. Taylor, Nashville, Tenn.

"I have one of Grover & Baker's Sewing Machines in use in my family, and find it invaluable. I can confidently recommend it to all persons in want of a machine."—G. T. Thompson, Nashville, Tenn.

"I take pleasure in certifying to the utility of the Grover & Baker Sewing Machines. I have used one on almost every description of work for months, and find it much stronger and better in every respect than work done by hand."—Mrs. D. W. Wheeler, Nashville, Tenn.

"I would be unwilling to dispose of my Grover & Baker Machine for a large amount, could I not replace it again at pleasure."—Mrs. H. G. Scovel, Nashville, Tenn.

"Our two machines, purchased from you, do the work of twenty young ladies. We with pleasure recommend the Grover & Baker Sewing Machine to be the best in use."—N. Stillman & Co., Memphis, Tenn.

"The Grover & Baker Sewing Machine works admirably. I think the stitch and work far superior to that of any Sewing Machine I ever saw. On fine work, I think the Machine would be hard to beat."—J. W. Davie, Memphis, Tenn.

"I find the Machine easily managed, very durable, and take pleasure in recommending it to all who wish convenience, economy, and pleasure."—Mrs. F. Titus, Memphis, Tenn.

"The Grover & Baker Sewing Machines have given such satisfaction that we cheerfully recommend them to all who wish a good and substantial Sewing Machine. It executes work with much care and speed, and more finely than any other machine I have seen."—Mrs. R. B. Mitchell, Memphis, Tenn.

"I am happy to give my testimony in favor of Grover & Baker's Sewing Machine, and of the perfect satisfaction it gives in every respect. It sews neatly, and is by no means complicated, and I prefer it to all others I have seen."—Mrs. Bryan, wife of Rev. A. M. Bryan, Memphis, Tenn.

"It affords me much pleasure to say, that the Machine works well; and I do not hesitate to recommend it as possessing all the advantages you claim for it. My wife is very much pleased with it, and we take pleasure in certifying to this effect."—R. C. Brinkley, Memphis, Tenn.

"It gives me pleasure to find the Grover & Baker Sewing Machine giving so much satisfaction. I have it in constant use, and find it all that could be desired. It is the most simple and durable machine in use, and I heartily recommend it."—F. M. White, Memphis, Tenn.

"Having seen, examined, and used many other kinds of Sewing Machines, I feel free to say, that the Grover & Baker Machines are far superior to all others in use."—M. Francios Selz, Nashville, Tenn.

"I consider my Sewing Machine invaluable, and would not take five times its cost, if I could not supply its place. With it I can do all my family sewing in about one-fourth the time I could with my hands."—M. J. Scott, Nashville, Tenn.
